Our Supply Chains

Our supply chains include companies who supply raw materials, specialist trade contractors who undertake supply and fix contracts, labour only subcontractors and specialist professional organisations who provide a range of services across the portfolio of projects we deliver for our clients.

Our partnership approach with clients, community stakeholders and supply chains enables us to achieve practical, safer methods of ethical trading free from slavery and human trafficking.

Due Diligence Processes for Slavery and Human Trafficking

As part of our initiative to identify and mitigate risk we include in our subcontract orders a clause on anti-slavery and human trafficking which requires our suppliers to have their own systems and controls in place to adhere to the Modern Slavery Act 2015. We adhere to robust recruitment and selection processes and employment checks in the selection of our suppliers through the supply chain agreement and procurement process. We raise awareness of the issues around slavery and human trafficking within both the company induction process and information campaigns and will roll out an e-learning package to ensure all our employees remain vigilant.

Training

To ensure a high level of understanding of the risks of slavery and human trafficking in our supply chains and our business, we provide awareness training to our staff.

Further Steps

We shall continue to engage with our supply chains to raise awareness through workshops and toolbox talks.

We shall continue to audit suppliers regarding their actions to tackle modern slavery in their supply chains.

This statement is made pursuant to section 54(1) of the Modern Slavery Act 2015 and constitutes our Group's slavery and human trafficking statement for the financial year ending 31 December 2020.
